POLO TODAY
SIR FREDERICK POLLOCK
TWO FIGHTING LADIES
WE AMUSE COSTE

By Arthur Brisbane
(Copyright 1930 By King Features

TODAY, British and American polo teams play in Long Island. It will be a violent game, serious accidents are to be feared, judging by the mood of the players.

The British have one particularly brilliant man on their team, Lacey. And he is a native of South America.

The most brilliant man on the American team, with one possible exception, is Guest, son of an Englishman, with an American mother. And the greatest polo player of all time, Devereux Milburn, born in Buffalo, was the son of an Englishman, a great lawyer.

The British seem to have the solid material and this climate seems to speed it up.

Sir Frederick Pollock, a great authority on international law, accepted on Thursday last, an honorary degree from Columbia university. The presence of Sir Frederick honored the university, and all connected with it, for Sir Frederick Pollock is in the best sense of the word a learned man, possessing knowledge and able to impart it.

HIS BRIEF analysis of the Monroe Doctrine, which the late Senator Lodge caused to be printed as a United States document, is the best exposition of that doctrine ever written.

And his book on the life and philosophy of Spinoza is one that should be read by every man interested in philosophical thought and in Spinoza, greatest intellectual genius produced by the Jewish race.

ON BENDED KNEES, with his high forehead buried in his two hands, James Hamilton Lewis, of Chicago, should be rendering thanks night and morning from now until election day.

A "clay enemy" of Ruth Hanna McCormick, named Mrs. Lottie Holman O'Neill, enters the Illinois race for senator as a bone dry independent.

In the primaries Mrs. McCormick was dry. Now Illinois appears wet. Mrs. McCormick, sensibly, as a candidate for office accepts the view of the people.

But Illinois politicians think the combative Mrs. Lottie will get enough dry Republican votes to make it impossible for the also combative Mrs. Ruth to win.

And James Hamilton Lewis, born wet, and never, dry one second since will walk in, over the bodies of two fighting ladies.

Who says "woman has made no difference in politics"?

COSTE, peerless French flier, "hopping" from New York to Dallas, Texas, 1,700 miles for a special price of $25,000, says on arrival: "Pouf, pouf! That was nothing."

He made it in less than 12 hours. He says also, visiting to Mr. Adolph S. Ochs, that the next time he flies, he will take an American with him, because "we find you very amusing, you Americans."

Some Americans that go to Paris find the French "very amusing," which makes the account even.

Nevertheless, observing how we live here, he asks with Gaelic humor, "why not move the statue of Liberty to Paris?"

NEW RECORD IN ENROLLMENT FOR YEAR EXPECTED

Teachers' Assignments At Buildings Announced By Superintendent

TEACHERS PAYROLL WILL TOTAL $11,000

Township Annexation To Bring Increase Of 200 In Grades

With everything declared in readiness for the accommodation of a record-breaking enrollment of students, Salem public schools will open for the 1930-31 term Monday morning.

More than 2,500 students are expected to enroll in classes the opening day, J. S. Alan, superintendent, announced today. Increases are anticipated in enrollment at various buildings later in the week which may bring total students attending school near the 2,600 mark.

Eighty-six teachers, principals and special instructors will be in charge of classes, an increase of two over the last year's number included on faculty teaching staffs in the seven schools. Monthly payrolls for teachers and principals will approximate $11,000, a slight increase over the 1929-30 term total of $10,800.

With the annexation of Perry township districts to the city school districts an increase of almost 200 pupils is expected in the grade schools. The high school enrollment is expected to exceed 700 with pupils attending junior high and grade school sessions estimated at a total of more than 1,800.

W. J. Springer will be principal of the high school for the third year with Miss M. Maude Hart, dean of girls. Mrs. Nina E. Lyle is principal of junior high. Principals of grade schools are:

Miss Dorothy Smith, Reilly; Miss Alice Whinnery, Fourth street; Miss Natalie Sharpnack, McKinley; and Miss Elizabeth Horne, Columbia and Miss Ora Montgomery, Prospect.

Special Teachers
Miss Grace P. Orr will be in charge of musical instruction with her sister, Mrs. Anna W. Sapp in charge of art and penmanship in grades. Ray B. Clarke succeeds H. McCord as director of physical education in grades. Lois Lehman will be librarian at the high school.

Mrs. W. J. Springer has been re-elected secretary to the superintendent while Miss Helen Williams is secretary to the principal. Otto

French Fliers Enroute To New York; To Fly Over West Point

LOUISVILLE, Ky., Sept. 6.—The Question Mark, carrying Capt. Dieudonne Coste and Maurice Bellonte on the second leg of their return trip to New York, from their Paris-New York-Dallas flight took off from Bowman airfield here at 6:38 a. m. Salem time, today and headed in the direction of Cincinnati.

The engine of the scarlet craft started the second turn of the propeller and the ship got under way without difficulty.

The fliers planned to circle the United States Military Academy at West Point and drop small American flags before going on to land at Curtiss field, Long Island. They said they also would circle over Manhattan and drop flags.

ANTI-SALOON LEAGUE IN ILLINOIS STARTS NEW DRY CAMPAIGN

Hectic Campaigns During Senatorial Fight To Result In Change

By GEORGE R. HOLMES (By International News Service)

WASHINGTON, Sept. 6.—Injection of a militant, bone-dry candidate into the hectic senatorial campaign in Illinois marks the beginning of a new political policy on the part of the much-harassed Anti-Saloon league.

As a general policy, the league has heretofore been content to give its support to a nominal dry wherever and whenever opposed by an avowed wet candidate. But changing conditions have brought about a revision of this policy and henceforth it was indicated Friday, the league is going to demand that the candidates who receive its support stand securely hitched to a bone-dry and no-deviation plank.

In consequence, although Mrs. Ruth Hanna McCormick has pronounced herself dry, and her Democratic opponent, J. Hamilton Lewis, is avowedly winging wet, the league is going to support Mrs. Lottie Holman O'Neill as an independent candidate in November.

"Punish" Mrs. McCormick
The league's support for Mrs. O'Neill is by way of punishment for Mrs. McCormick for deviating slightly from the staunch dry platform on which she won the Republican nomination. This deviation consisted of her announcement some weeks ago that if Illinois votes wet in the forthcoming November referendum, it has already twice voted wet in referendum.

Thus the absorbing Illinois senatorial fight, already the most spectacular in the country, becomes a three-ringed circus in which Illinois voters can express themselves in November for: (1) a bone dry woman, (2) a just ordinarily dry woman, or (3) a winging wet man for the coveted senatorship.

There is considerable interest among political leaders here as to whether the new policy of the league is to be pursued in other states where conditions are analogous to those in Illinois, notably in

FASCIST REGIME TAKES 4 LIVES

Plotter Charged With Assassination Plan Shot By Squad

TRIESTE, Italy, Sept. 6.—Four men whose sin was terrorism against the Fascist regime in Italy, and a plot to kill Premier Mussolini, paid with their lives today for their offense.

The four were led out at dawn, strapped in chairs, and put before a firing squad. The firing squad was composed of Fascist militia men.

It was the third occasion in which capital punishment in this form has been inflicted in Italy since 1860, and brought a total of six thus executed. The executions were under the law passed in November, 1928, which provided a special tribunal for trial of offenses against the security of the state and set the death penalty by shooting for those making attempts against the lives of the king, other royalty or the head of the government, that is, Mussolini.

All executed in this manner have been shot the morning succeeding sentence.

The four men executed today were members of a group of 18 tried on charges of 13 murders, 31 attempted murders, bombings, burning of schools and asylums, spreading of subversive literature and supplying military secrets to Yugoslavia.

JUDGE LONES TO HEAR PETITIONS ON REFERENDUM

Attempts To Block Vote On Limit Extension To Be Decided

PERMANENT ORDER SOUGHT BY SCOTT

Four Special Issues May Appear On Ballot Here On November 4th

The hearing on the petitions filed by City Solicitor Cecil K. Scott in attempts to prevent the referendum election on the annexation of Perry township territory to Salem corporation limits will be held in court of Common Pleas Judge W. F. Lones in Lisbon at 1 p. m. Monday.

Legality of petitions against the referendum vote, papers which were circulated in this city by township residents and to which 719 signatures are affixed, will be determined by the court in answer to the solicitor's allegations that they are illegal while a decision concerning issuance of a permanent injunction against the county board of elections will also be made.

Temporary Order Granted
A temporary restraining order to prevent the election board from submitting the extension project to Salem voters by ballot at the November 4th election has already been granted by Judge Lones. Scott seeks the permanent order to defeat attempts of township voters to bring the matter to an election.

It will be the second appearance of the extension project in the county court in less than two weeks. Scott having summoned Miss Helen R. Woerther, Salem city auditor, before Judge Lones to show why she should not be cited for contempt of court following her action in sending the petitions to the election board but this charge was not forced.

A hearing was scheduled in Judge Lones' court to determine whether a permanent injunction be issued by Scott against Miss Woerther to prevent her from filing the petitions with the election board but the auditor made this hearing improbable by forwarding the papers to John Moore, clerk of the board in East Liverpool.

Scott's Final Appeal
Monday's hearing marks what is probably the solicitor's final appeal to the county court to prevent the vote on the extension.

If Judge Lones refuses Scott's petitions in the case it will result in four special issues being placed before Salem voters at the coming election. Three of the issues involve special levies while the fourth is that on the extension.

The most important levy will be that in which the board of education proposes to voters of this city and Perry township that they approve a $385,000 bond issue for the construction of a new high school building at the site adjacent to Reilly athletic stadium.

Two one-half levies are proposed by city council. One is for the purpose of providing funds for payment of the city's share in street improvements and the second will provide costs of maintenance and operation of the sewage treatment plant.

The school levy is planned for a period of 24 years.

TILBY SMITH TO APPEAL VERDICT

Prosecutor To Present Case In Supreme Court Monday

JEFFERSON, O., Sept. 6.—Tilby Smith, 26, of Ashland, who is under sentence of death of conviction of murdering his 22-year-old wife, Clara, was returned here from Ohio penitentiary to await decision of the state supreme court on his appeal from conviction.

Prosecutor Howard Nazor will go to Columbus Monday to present his version of the case to the supreme court. The point in question is whether Common Pleas Judge Charles R. Sargent erred in refusing to allow Smith to waive trial by jury. Numerous errors in the trial were alleged by Smith's attorneys but the question of jury waiver was the only one allowed by the appellate court.

Smith was found guilty of first degree murder without mercy, by the jury which heard his case. His wife was shot to death on a lonely road near Ashland the night of May 29.

Mrs. Maude Lowther, 22, who is alleged to have fired the shot, is scheduled to be tried on a first degree murder indictment Sept. 22 but Nazor said the trial may be postponed, pending the supreme court's decision in Smith's case.

DEMOCRATS HERE PLAN CAMPAIGNS IN FALL VOTING

Active Participation In November Election Is Planned At Meeting

Salem Democrats gathered last night at Memorial hall for the purpose of outlining and planning preparations for what they anticipate as the most active and intense Democratic campaign. Columbiana county has witnessed in recent years.

Harry D. Arnold, editor and owner of the Leetonia Reporter and candidate for county auditor, and Conrad Berg also of Leetonia, who is listed on the Democratic ticket for county commissioner, were the speakers of the evening.

Arnold, in his address before the group, gave a brief summary of the party's platform. He stressed the importance of personal interest, which should be shown and encouraged by every Democratic resident of Salem and vicinity. He pointed out that the success of Democratic candidates would be based upon the co-operation of every voter at the polls in November.

Berg, who served as county commissioner eight years ago, offered suggestions regarding the coming campaign, which had proved practical in past successful elections. He urged that every Democrat should plan to attend the rallies, which are to be held until the end of the campaign period.

A finance committee was appointed consisting of George M. Artor, who is secretary and treasurer of the organization, Charles A. Cavanaugh and Austin I. Getz.

A. E. Beardmore is chairman of the organization.

No definite date has been set for the next meeting, but it was decided that announcement of such a date would be made within a short time.

FORD PREDICTS EARLY END FOR U. S. DEPRESSION

Auto Magnate Believes Business Now Better Than 2 Years Ago

New York, Sept. 6.—Sailing aboard the liner Bremen for a six weeks' business and pleasure trip in Europe, Henry Ford predicted an early end to the present business depression.

He said the depression might outlast October, but that business now was better than two years ago. He ascribed the growing prosperity to the people substituting "thinking" for speculating.

He said he would combine business and pleasure on his trip and he, Mrs. Ford and the party of three who were accompanying them, would motor through France and Germany, stopping at the Ford factory at Cologne. The others in the party were Mr. and Mrs. Charles A. Hodges of Detroit, and E. G. Liebold, his secretary.

The party had boarded the North German liner by a lower gangplank and the fact that Mr. Ford intended to sail was not disclosed to newspapermen until after he was aboard. He then received them in his suite.

Asked his opinion of politics and prohibition, he said no politics existed in America today and that prohibition was here to stay. "Except for a damp spot here and there," he said, "America is dry."

Questioned as to the truth of reports that the Ford company planned the manufacture of six-cylinder cars, he said:

"I've got more important news for you than that. I'm building a hotel."

"What for?" he was asked.

"For rumors," he said, spelling out the last word.

THE MODERN WAY

The summer could not pass by without one major disaster close enough to the United States to make it real to Americans. This time it happened to be a hurricane which swept Santo Domingo, killing some 1,000 residents, destroying the flimsy homes of the poor, doing damage to the castles and mansions of the wealthy and striking terror in the hearts of all people. Poverty runs so close on the heels of mankind in the West Indies that any untoward event gives it a chance to catch up.

Twenty-four hours after the first news of the storm had been relayed to this country, plans were under way for the relief of storm sufferers. As always, the gigantic Red Cross organization was electrified into action—cabling its orders here and there just as so many impulses through a vast nervous system. Simultaneously, other organizations and, taking precedence over all, the United States government drew up hastily organized programs and started to the rescue.

It is the modern way of doing things. The world is knit together so closely and the safety of each part is so essential to the pattern of the whole that rescue work has become a familiar activity. It moves on as smoothly and efficiently as the routine of everyday living whenever it is called into play.

Santo Domingo today, Italy yesterday, and some other place tomorrow.

JANE ADDAMS

Birthdays afford a faultless excuse to talk about people, to praise them, to emphasize their accomplishments by the measure of time and to give them certain little honors which they might not receive otherwise. A number of magazines and newspapers are taking advantage of a birthday in that way this month—the 70th birthday of Jane Addams, mother of social service and spokesman for social progress.

Miss Addams is acclaimed today the most honored woman in America, one of the leading citizens of the world. If you would understand how she attained such extreme honor among her fellow-men you must realize what it is to understand the greatness of life—all units of living matter—and translate it into language that can be understood by others. You must also be able to comprehend what things you can do to improve the station of the unfortunate, to preserve the station of the fortunate and how to do both gracefully and in such a way that no one will be aggrieved. All these things Jane Addams has done with a remarkable consideration for detail as well as general outline.

Hull-house on Halstead street, Chicago, has been her working laboratory—a social center that has been imitated in every large American city and many cities abroad. For 40 years it has functioned to the fullest extent of its capacity, despite numerous additions and a constantly increasing personnel of resident workers. It is the cradle of social work, not only in Chicago but the world.

Miss Addams' conceptions of service have been responsible for many parts of the social machine. Once, health programs, the juvenile court, abolition of child labor, improved working conditions for other labor and the conception of social agency for the benefit of the unfortunate were regarded as novel and radical ideas. Largely through the efforts of Miss Addams and her workers they are accepted today as a matter of course. One ideal greater than all the others still stands afar off in Miss Addams' field of vision, however. It is world peace. Perhaps she never will be assured of its presence but she is not impatient. Seventy years of constructive work have taught her the importance of time as a factor in advancement.

Miss Addams has not retired—will not retire. She starts on her 41st year as "mother" of Hull House with a full program of work ahead and a long list of successes behind, a home-maker for thousands. Her reward is simple but abundant—the satisfaction of knowing she has helped mankind on its way.

UNPLEASANTNESS

The recent affair between the French government and William Randolph Hearst, publisher, seems to be safely buried away. Mr. Hearst understands that he is persona non grata in France, and the French people have learned that Mr. Hearst has a knack of turning little embarrassments to his own advantage. And that is all there is to it. The whole affair is typically French and typically Hearst.

One cannot escape the feeling, however, that the French came off a little the worse from the engagement. To satisfy their honor, one might say, they indulged themselves in a display of ponderous dignity that appeared somewhat ridiculous, considering the occasion. It is as though an elephant were really to go after a mouse in dead earnest. In spite of Mr. Hearst's prominence in his particular field he is hardly fair game for the whole Republic of France.

His offense, an impersonal one, was the publication in his newspapers of a theretofore secret document relating to interesting Anglo-French naval treaty negotiations. The document was obtained by members of Mr. Hearst's Paris office and in publishing it he no doubt considered his newspapers as performing a proper service to the American public. The French cabinet looked at the matter otherwise.

Perhaps the most pertinent comment on the situation is that of the London Herald, which says:

"The French claim they are the most logical nation of Europe and have the liveliest sense of humor. These qualities belong, of course, to the French people, not to their cabinets."

It pays to laugh sometimes even when one's inclinations are toward active reprisal.

SO HAPPY THEY COULD SING

The first duty of an amusement expert is to make people laugh. It doesn't matter much how he does it or whether the people are actually happy about it at the time. A laugh, the first laugh, is half the battle. Shaking platforms, unexpected blasts of air, incongruous costumes and arrangements, queer noises, illogical sequences and all kinds of tomfoolery are part of the stock in trade. They produce the chuckle which grows to a guffaw and right on up into a good time.

Theaters have attempted an interesting variation of the amusement park man's "first laugh"—the audience "sing." The principle is the same; the customer had a good time because everyone else has a good time. Consequently, he will consider his money well spent and may spend more of it.

But, with few exceptions, what a tough time the poor "expert" fellows have of it trying to make people enjoy themselves by singing! Dour looks, timid glances, self-consciousness in all its many forms are overwhelming enemy forces. All kinds of cajolery may be practiced, from the customary suggestions flashed on the screen to a "plant" in the audience who starts the ball a-rolling. But rarely is the response more than a general humming, perhaps a few uncertain solos in different parts of the audience. And as soon as the soloists become aware of their classification they shut up.

Theater-goers obviously are the same folks one meets on the street, in business, at the club, on the golf course. They are not timid—far from it. Get a group of them together, strike a few chords on a piano and they are off, fairly bursting their lungs to see who can sing the loudest and the best. In a crowd, however, they sit glumly while an expert entertains them to sing. They paid their money to have a good time, but singing in public—pardon me.

One suspects that wrapped up in the whole thing are some interesting sidelights on the ability of Americans to amuse themselves. It's a good topic for a lecture. You can deliver it.

An imaginative mind has figured out that when it gets cold in the South Seas coconuts filled with ice cream are eaten with a grain of salt.

The ladies admitted a few days ago that woman suffrage in the United States was 10 years old. Ten more years and there won't be any more birthdays, we presume.

The greatest and most beautiful example of intellect is when it is effective in the well-ordering of

TO THE RESCUE

What Others Say

MARRIAGE RATE

Reports from one-third of the 48 states show that the marriage rate increased for 1929 in a dozen and declined in four. It gained, too, in the District of Columbia. In nine states and the district divorce also increased. Pennsylvania is not included in the preliminary returns; but Delaware and New Jersey both registered marriage gains and divorce recessions.

Until a complete summary is available little can be definitely told about the trend in the whole country. Local conditions which operate favorably in one community may have an adverse influence on neighboring territory. The marked rise in the matrimonial rate for Nevada, for instance, which is the most notorious divorce center in the union, may probably be explained by the migration of couples from California, where it is now necessary to obtain a license several days in advance of the ceremony. Similarly South Carolina, which grants no divorces, has increased the burden for North Carolina and Georgia, where South Carolinians go to seek separation.

Students of social conditions are not much encouraged at discovering a rise in the marriage curve if it is the same time accompanied by a rise in the divorce curve. But there is evidence in the present statistics of a net gain that may be later reflected hopefully for the whole United States.—Philadelphia Inquirer.

HEALTH

By Dr. Royal S. Copeland

Treating Infants' Ills

Little babies have a great many things to bother them. They have ailments, some big, some little. Vomiting is a symptom indicating that something is wrong.

Anything that interferes with comfortable digestion, that "upsets the stomach," usually produces vomiting. Scarlet fever and many other diseases of childhood begin with vomiting.

Mothers are happy just so long as baby is normal and well. When its eating and sleeping are interfered with by indigestion then everybody is unhappy.

It is a common thing for a young baby to vomit shortly after eating. Only a few minutes after feeding some of the food is expelled. This the mother does not worry about. Natural and Unnatural Vomiting.

But vomiting a quantity of sour material as much as an hour after feeding is quite another matter. The chances are that the baby has been overfed or has been fed too fast. If so the stomach was overcrowded and naturally the excess material was thrown off.

The milk or food mixture may be the best in the world. But if a child gulps it down hurriedly in its hungry eagerness, vomiting is sure to follow.

Perhaps the rubber nipple has too large a hole in it. If that is the case the bottle could be emptied in five minutes, which is altogether too short a time for a baby to be fed. A quarter of an hour is not too much time for the baby to take its food.

When the hole in the nipple is too small it might take half an hour for feeding. In its efforts to get the milk the child swallows a quantity of air. Of course, it will vomit in such a case.

Too much fat, or cream, in the milk may be responsible for your baby's vomiting. This is rather a common cause for trouble.

Change In Feeding May Be Cure.—The bottle-fed baby needs a certain amount of sugar in its food. Milk sugar or corn sugar is the best. Most authorities do not favor cane sugar for this purpose.

Of course, some babies seem to thrive in spite of the vomiting. You cannot be sure that the sugar is the cause of frequent vomiting. But it would be wise to change to another kind if cane sugar has been used.

Whenever a baby has more than the mildest form of vomiting it is wise to have a doctor see what is wrong. Do not wait too long. Some slight change in feeding may make everything all right. You will be doing the wise thing for your child if you take expert advice.

Mrs. H. S. Q.—What is trench mouth?

A.—This is an infectious disease of the mouth. Treatment should be outlined by the family doctor.

Mrs. C. L. C. Q.—What causes a cracked tongue?

A.—This is probably due to hyperacidity, caused by faulty diet and poor elimination. This should be corrected.

The Stars Say—

For Sunday, September 7

Sunday's horoscope holds augury of stirring and interesting events with substantial progress and finely stimulated activities in many cherished lines. These may involve a change of environment and travel, with contacts of decided benefit with strangers or strange enterprises. But in such new ventures be on guard against subtlety and duplicity.

Those whose birthday it is are assured of an interesting and eventful year with possible change of environment and with new interests and affiliations.

A child born on this day may be resourceful, courageous and enterprising with much initiative in new directions and in contacting strange persons and projects.

NEW YORK, Sept. 6.—The restaurant waiter, in popular thought, graces one of the lowliest callings. Yet many in New York give their services a patina of rare dignity. This is especially true of those employed at the de luxe clubs, such as the Metropolitan, Lotus, Yacht, etc.

Many grow gray serving several generations and almost become a part of select Knickerbocker families. During the past year five waiters were remembered in wills of wealthy bon vivants. An oft told legend is the elder Morgan gave a Virginia farm to a waiter who served him well.

There are waiters who have "followings." Many refuse to be captained or even head waiters because they do not want to end such profitable intimacies. Men of means appreciate excellent service in the same degree as excellent food, and will pay for it.

The old Fifth Avenue hotel had Terry, a kindly Irishman, who with consideration waited upon the great of that epoch. After the hotel closed, Terry was jobless, senescent and without funds. Today he lives in a Killarney cottage—a grateful gift from those he faithfully attended.

When the original Delmonico—and what became of that dazzling middle chandelier?—hung up shutters two servants got annuities and tickets to native England from a man they showed attention. Lady, one of Broadway's opulent restaurateurs, was established by patrons he served as waiter.

Diamond Jim Brady, gourmand extraordinary, had a list of aged waiters on pension at the time of his passing. The number made independent by stick tips is enormous. No job offers more advantageous contacts with people of importance than waiting in high class cafes.

Jack Dunstan acquired a fortune operating celebrated Jack's. He began dealing 'em off the arm a few doors away. Billy, the Oysterman, I believe, began in the same fashion. Records show headwaiters remain head waiters but a waiter does not always remain a waiter.

I speared this in the fashion twitery of a theater program and it clears up everything: "It is a mooted question whether the opera hat or the orthodox silk topper is preferable for wear with dinner jacket. According to lex scripta, fashion countenances neither. Elongated hat and abbreviated coat are obviously an anomaly. "That's tellin' 'em, kid. Good old Beaunash."

And an East 51st haberdashery advertises: "Smalls and shorts." Burlington arcade for underwear.

There is no connection but it recalls that hilarious limning in the New Yorker of a candy salesman displaying a sample with: "Here's a novelty—an all day sucker, just lousy with nuts."

Paul Frawley, a prettier-than-all-get-out juvenile, was once a freckle-faced kid in Burlington, Iowa, so homely little girls pressed hands over their faces and rushed by screaming.

Three hotels have tiny chapels where those who desire may retire for meditation, delightful sanctuaries in the hurrah, and usually filled. And to tickle Mr. Merrell, no doubt—a 60-room hotel recently removed Gideon Bibles from rooms. More than 200 patrons over night inquired why, and they were restored.

With push cart peddlers vanishing in the Ghetto, amusing tales of curb merchants will be heard no more. One concerns a peddler inquiring of his neighbor the state of business. Receiving no reply he made three similar efforts, and was finally rewarded with: "Does Macy tell Gimble?"

During absence from town—and to fill the void I presume—the Bronx Zoo added a baby yak and two aoudads. An aoudad suggests Louis Mann without a collar and is worth seeing but I cannot do a headspin over a yak. Even grown up, it is just a buffalo to me.

Taunts R. T. E.: "You are the bird who predicted six years ago Broadway would have no night clubs in five years. I visited seven last night."

They Overlooked the Diamonds

THERE is a modern flippancy to the effect that "What you don't know won't hurt you." It is also a fallacy. For instance:

The farmers of Kimberley were a disgusted, disheartened lot. They said the soil was too rocky to earn them a living. Some of them left. Others died in poverty.

And all the time their children were playing with diamonds.

But the farmers didn't know. They thought the priceless gems were pebbles.

Don't be like those Kimberley farmers. Know!

Don't seek opportunity in some distant place and overlook the diamonds that are daily within your grasp. Know!

In the Churches

First Presbyterian, East Second and Lund streets, Raymond D. Walter, minister.

Sunday, Sept. 7

9:45—Bible school, Lee B. Vincent, Supt. Vacations are over and everyone is ready to get back onto schedule. You should take your accustomed place in your class and help in carrying on the great work of the church. Indirectly life will be made more worth while for yourself.

11—Morning worship. Sermon: "Dangerous Fires." You have been hearing a good deal about fires this summer and perhaps you wonder what this title conceals. The best way to know is to come and hear the sermon. You will be helped by it.

7:30—Evening worship. After a month's vacation from evening attendance, we are once more ready to launch into two inspiring services. Come and participate in the gospel songs. Sermon: "Obeying God's Command."

Christian Endeavor will also be resumed. The topic is: "Crusading for Christ." Mary Frances Bessler will lead. Come promptly at 6:30.

Prayer meeting, Wednesday, 7:30 p. m. This will complete the studies in the Gospel of John. Everyone has enjoyed these discussions. You are invited to have a part in them.

The Woman's Missionary society will meet Wednesday at 3 p. m. Executive meeting at 2:30 p. m. Mrs. C. A. Haviland is in charge of the devotions. Miss Alice Haviland will tell of her trip to Europe and Mr. Walter will speak on "Church and Youth." There will be brief talks by Mrs. O. P. Ashford, Presbyterian secretary of children's work, and by Mrs. H. G. Percival, superintendent of the Light Bearers. There will also be special music. Supper is at 5:30 p. m. Mrs. C. D. Holy Trinity English Lutheran, Rev. George D. Keister, pastor. All services are held at the Memorial building on East State street.

Twelfth Sunday after Trinity. Sunday school 9:45 (2 Kings 23:1-25) H. E. Smith, superintendent.

The goal of leadership is sought constantly. There is honor and influence that belongs to a leader. A leader is respected and looked up to. Yet being a leader carries a weighty responsibility. The lives of others are made or ruined by leaders. The pointing arrow or destination may be up to honor or down to dishonor. Evil leaders leave a trail of crime and death for generations. Righteous leaders have monuments of blessings that live after them. Thank God for godly leaders in our day and the past. May their tribe increase.

Morning worship 11:00. Sermon by the pastor: "Enthusiasm for Christ." There is a happy medium in religious experience and practice. There is that sentimental, shallow, and super-emotional type that if left alone will in time scatter into thin air into nothingness. On the other hand there is that austere, puritanic and dead type that soon becomes as dry bones from which there is no resurrection. It is the happy medium for which we should strive. There must be life in our religion but its basis must be as firm as the Rock of Ages even Jesus Christ. There is a place in our religion for enthusiasm. It will bring pleasant satisfaction to our own souls and will help those whose lives touch our lives.

The Luther League business meeting will be held Monday evening.

The Women's Home and Foreign Missionary society will meet Friday evening at 7:30.

The church council and building committee will have a special meeting after the morning service, and another meeting on Friday at 7 p. m.

Preaching services at the Washingtonville Lutheran church Sunday evening at 7:30.

First Baptist, corner of Lincoln and State streets, Rev. A. C. Westphal, pastor.

"Let My Joy be in you," and "Praise My Joy." were the words of the Master. Thus He gave us a real incentive to worship, for in worship we sit at His feet and exchange sorrow for joy, death for life, despair for hope, weariness for rest, and disappointment for His appointment. May we see you Sunday?

Bible school at 9:45. Ellwood Hammett, Supt.

6:30—Epworth League devotional meeting, topic, "Planning the Year's Program," leader, Miss Ethel Shears. This will be the first league service for the fall and all leaguers and friends are urged to be present.

7:30—Evening service. One of the great experiences in the life of the young people of this church is the summer institute at Lakeside, Ohio. Seven of our Epworth leaguers who were in attendance at this summer's institute will tell at this service, something of what the week at Lakeside meant to them. The speakers will be Harold Hunt, Geraldine Floding, Ernest Naragon, Harold Shears, Lionel Smith, Nellie Naragon and Dana Floding. We believe the members of the congregation who helped in a financial way to make this experience possible for our young people and others, will be anxious to hear these reports.

FOUR INJURED IN ACCIDENT

Boy May Die As Result Of Mishap Occurring In Youngstown

YOUNGSTOWN, Sept. 6.—One boy was probably fatally injured and three girls seriously hurt when a runaway truck, carrying eight tons of sewer pipe, crashed into the front of a creery warehouse, near here today.

The boy, William Adams, 12, seated on the front of an automobile parked in front of the warehouse was struck by one of two pipes which rolled off the truck and pinned him between the pipe and auto. The boy's head was crushed and physicians held no hope of recovery. The injured girls were seated in the car.

Charles Getshall, driver of the truck, said he heard something snap, and, thinking the axle had broken, jumped from the truck about two blocks above where the crash occurred.

The truck ran wild until it leaped the curb in front of the warehouse, then crashed into the building.

Cleveland Eliminated From American League Pennant Chase

THE DAY In Sports

REAL PENNANT BATTLE

As a result of the St. Louis Cardinals' climb into the elite rating in the National league, the middle has become more complex and there are few that offer the prediction as to which of four teams will win the league pennant. The race has slightly less than a month to go and five teams still have a slight chance for laurels.

Even the Pittsburgh Pirates, the league's big disappointment, are only 10 games behind the Cubs and the Bucs are in fifth place. When in baseball history was such a race so close and hotly contested? The Brooklyn Dodgers, the circuit's surprise team, New York Giants, always in a pennant race, and Cards form the Cubs' most formidable opponents at present.

The Giants and Dodgers hold the edge in the schedules, with the Cubs getting by far the worst of the deal when the league moguls gathered and arranged the year's slate. For the Cubs face jinx after jinx in closing the season while the New Yorkers have sledding much easier.

Fans might as well start reserving series reservations at Philadelphia, however, for there appears no team to nose out Connie Mack's aggregation of ball talent. The Senators are six and one-half games in arrears and have a tough finish; the Yankees are 14 games behind and the Cleveland Indians have all they can do to hold onto fourth place, even though the Tigers are seven and one-half games back of them.

Indians 18 Games Back Of Mackmen With Only 17 Contests Left To Play

The principal worry of the followers of the Philadelphia Athletics is whether they can find places in Shibe park when the A's meet the champion of the senior circuit in the world's series.

The Athletics have eliminated all but two rivals from even a mathematical chance of taking the American league flag. Washington and New York are left with only hopes of overtaking the world's champions. The Senators remain 5½ games behind the Athletics. The Yankees are 15 games away from first place.

Cleveland fell by the wayside yesterday, although winning its seventh game in succession, defeating the Chicago White Sox, 6 to 1. Philadelphia also won a game and the Indians were left 18 games behind and with only 17 to play for each team.

Red Sox Lose Again
Although they lost their eighth straight game, the Boston Red Sox again gave some trouble to the league leading Athletics. In a mound duel between Jack Russell and George Earnshaw, they were only one run behind up to the eighth inning when the A's scored three runs, two on Al Simmons' 34th homer.

Washington gained nothing by slugging the Yankees around for 15 hits to defeat them for the 17th time in 21 games this season by a 14 to 5 count. Ruth got his 45th homer.

Detroit and St. Louis had a day of idleness as did four of the National League clubs.

The St. Louis Cardinals profited by this day of rest, going into second place in the National league standing, four games behind Chicago, without making an effort as the Cubs and the New York Giants both lost.

Braves Trim Giants
New York Drapped to third as the Boston Braves hung a third straight defeat on the Giants, 6 to 4. Bruce Cunningham had only one bad inning as he limited the Giants to seven hits.

The Cubs led the Pirates almost to the final moment, then sent down, 8 to 7, under a final Blue-cancer rush. Trailing 7-1 at the end of the sixth, Pittsburgh scored three runs in each of the next two frames to drive Pat Malone from the mound and to the score.

In the ninth, Paul Waner came up after one man was out and clouted a home run over the right field stands to win the game.

Hurray Attending St. Vincent's Camp

LATHROBE, PA., Sept. 6.—The St. Vincent college athletic council held its reorganization meeting today to complete plans for the 1930 football season. The council is composed of several members of the faculty, the athletic director and Head Coach Clem Crowe.

Coaches Crowe and Edwards intend to run the boys through the preliminary stunts, tomorrow. Scrimmage will begin on Saturday. This afternoon was spent in running down passes and punts. Several of the new players look good and are expected to fill the places left by the five vacancies on the Bearcat eleven caused by graduation last June.

Joseph "Joe" Hurray of Salem is a candidate for the St. Vincent's varsity and is one of the squad's most promising players.

County Grid Activities

Palestine Looms Strong

Husky Team At Wellsville

EAST PALESTINE, Sept. 6.—Coach Perry Van Hining, assisted by two former grid stars, is training a squad of 36 East Palestine High hopefuls at a camp located one mile east of Enon Valley, Pa.

Prospects for an unusually strong grid combine for the Brown and White are declared by Palestine fans to be excellent despite graduation of several of the team's stars of the 1930 machine which is declared the best in school history here.

Palestine business men are assisting in financing the camp which will break up Sunday.

It is the first pre-season camp ever held for Palestine High gridlers.

Palestine last year had a great season despite two setbacks and held Salem High's undefeated aggregation to a 7-6 score. The Brown and White outplayed Salem in greater part of the game but was unable to score.

Van Hining is being assisted by Joe Dornon, star center, and Harry Herbert, hefty tackle, of last year's team.

COLUMBIANA — Coach M. R. Atkins of Columbiana High school has been putting his charges through a course in fundamentals this week in preparation for the coming season, which opens September 27th with a hard test, Lisbon High being played here.

The team work will probably be based on speed, as the heavy material available during the past two seasons has been lost by graduation and eligibility.

The balance of the schedule is: October 4, Leetonia there; Oct. 11, Sebring there; Oct. 18, Canfield here; Oct. 25, Hubbard there; Nov. 1, open; Nov. 8, East Palestine here; Nov. 15, Wellsville, there.

WELLSVILLE—A distance Columbiana county favor attaches itself to the Wellsville High school football schedule for the coming campaign.

Returning to the custom of other years, the Orange and Back has scheduled five games with county foes, including East Liverpool, in the annual Thanksgiving tilt, Lisbon, Columbiana, Leetonia and Salem. They will tackle the Quakers on the first Saturday in November, the date formerly of the annual Salem-East Liverpool game until apart for awhile.

These two schools agreed to stay a big team, with plenty of beef on the line in the backfield is envisioned by Coach Dave Evans as he starts work on his squad.

The Tigers will use the shift considerably this year. Evans says, and necessarily, must have more than ordinary amount of speed.

East Liverpool, Beaver and Salem, the two latter home games, are the big events on the Wellsville card, which follows:

Sept. 24—Minerva at Wellsville.
Oct. 4—Beaver, Pa., at Wellsville.
Oct. 11—Wellsville at Chester, W. Va.

Oct. 18—Open.

Oct. 25—Toronto at Wellsville.

Nov. 1—Salem at Wellsville.

Nov. 8—Leetonia at Wellsville.

Nov. 15—Columbiana at Wellsville.

Nov. 22—Wellsville at Lisbon.

Nov. 27—Wellsville at East Liverpool.

THE HOME KITCHEN

By Jeannette Young Norton

Why is it that so simple a dish as plain broiled mackerel can taste so utterly different when emerging from the kitchen of different cooks? All you need to do is place the mackerel under a flame and let nature take its course.

Still, there won't be the same results. Because of just those two or three trifling attentions which will be bestowed by different cooks. For one thing, fish should have some kind of seasoning during the process of cooking. Not necessarily a dash of salt, because salt does toughen some foods during cooking. But other flavorings. Letting a fresh fillet of mackerel or haddock marinate in a little lemon juice for an hour or so before cooking will improve its flavor. Or spreading the fish with a mixture of butter and anchovy paste just before broiling. Or a mixture of soft butter and chopped parsley. These will add just that seasoning which will make a great difference in the texture as well as the flavor of the fish.

Also, fish require quick cooking. Fifteen to 20 minutes under (or over) a clear flame is ample for most fish. If the fish is broiled too long its juices evaporate, the flesh becomes hard, and it becomes a task to eat it.

Broiled fish needs quick cooking, frequent watching and prompt serving, hot, the minute it is tender.

Salt mackerel or smoked kippers, smoked haddock, etc., need a few attentions. Salt mackerel, cod, blotters need an overnight soaking. The kippers can be broiled without soaking. But if spread with butter and lemon juice (or salad oil and vinegar, which isn't quite so good) before broiling they will be more tender and have a better developed flavor.

Fancy Clothes for Plain Dishes

If fish or meat must make a second appearance at the family table they will be most attractive if served in another dress. Scallop or clam shells when filled with creamed fish and browned in the oven may be more tempting than the whole fish.

As for the left-over meats, they can be filled in timbale cases and served either as luncheon or supper dishes, depending on the contents. Timbale cases have a very professional look but they are not any more difficult to make than doughnuts. It requires a timbale iron, very hot (same temperature as for doughnuts, which is about 380 F.), and quick action.

Timbale Cases

2 eggs
1 cup water
1 cup flour
1 tablespoonful sugar
1/2 teaspoonful salt
1 tablespoonful melted shortening (not butter).
Beat the eggs with the water and shortening, then add flour, sugar and salt, which have been sifted together. Let stand a few hours in a cool place.

When ready place the timbale iron in a Scotch bowl or other deep sauce-pan and add shortening liberally—sufficient to cover the iron well, then heat. When it reaches 380 F. remove the iron, let drain, then dip into the batter, but do not completely cover, as the mixture will expand during frying. Replace in hot shortening and fry until light brown. Remove and place on soft paper to drain.

The Food Tinting Fad

When colored bread sandwiches began to appear it seemed as though the last word in the food coloring fad had been said. But now there's a new one—tinted whipped cream, and it isn't confined to expensive restaurants but it's offered to the housewife. With each bottle of cream some dealers are including a little package of coloring material. You whip the cream when needed and color it any one of the rainbow tints you like.

It won't be long before green whipped cream or yellow or red or violet will add to the color harmony of the ladies' luncheon. And for a little while some hostesses will mystify their guests with the character of the garnish whose color gives no clue to its origin.

Color does add a good deal to the attractiveness of food, and unless it takes too much time it is a real aid in inducing the family to eat unaluring foods, as well as doling up dishes for guests. Such plain foods as apple sauce, prunes, custard are monotonous, though wholesome, and a touch of exotic coloring makes them more palatable to grown-ups as well as the small persons.

Artificial tints need not always be used. There are many foods which in themselves will provide pleasant tints. Pimento, citron, lemon peel, orange peel, beets are among the violently tinted foods and if cut in thin strips or small cubes may be used to add color to vegetable dishes, puddings, desserts, etc.

Tint candles may be impressed into the service of tinting cakes and puddings. Gum drops of varied hue, colored barley sugar, peppermint sticks can be cut into little cubes for decorative effect or may be melted down to add beautiful coloring. Juice of orange, beet or tomato may be used to color food gaily.

Pineapple As Vegetable

At the pleasant little Chinese dinner there was one outstanding dish, with a delightful but unidentifiable flavor. It took a few moments to distinguish among the pleasing mixture of celery, green pepper, chicken and almonds, the texture and flavor of pineapple.

This fruit may be used as a vegetable with all sorts of meat and fish, and unlike other foods, it blends well with almost anything, the delicate flavored meats—like chicken, lamb, veal—or the stronger savored ham, tongue, beef. Either fresh or canned fruit may be used. The fresh fruit will require longer cooking—the canned slices need merely a brief heating.

Lamb or pork chops served with a slice of thick hot pineapple between each chop, make a decorative dish. The chops are cooked first, then removed to a hot platter and kept hot. In the meantime

Attractive Week Ahead For Salem Motion Picture Fans

Next week's program promises to be a very entertaining one for even the most exacting of fans. The "State" offers Rex Beach's well-known novel, "Son of The Gods," with Richard Barthelmess enacting the role of a wealthy young Chinaman. "Montana Moon," which starts at this theater Wednesday, and stars Joan Crawford, popular actress of "Untamed," completes the bill.

"Hell Harbor," a tropical island story, featuring Lupe Velez, has its first run Monday, while Wednesday marks the presentation of the well-known play, "Condemned," with Ronald Colman leading the list of characters.

"Son of The Gods" is taken from the widely read novel of the same name, written by the American novelist, Rex Beach. It concerns the incidents in the life of a young Chinaman who is an outcast because of his Oriental parentage. He becomes involved in several predicaments with women, has several adventures.

Through the entire picture runs a thrill of the impressive, brought into the drama as a result of the extraordinary plot. Chinese scenes, those that are viewed in only imaginative minds during reading of Beach's novel, are excellently pictured.

"Hell Harbor" shows Miss Velez in another of her Central American roles. "Condemned" is the story of a famous prison island where the dregs of human life are condemned after being convicted for even the most minor of criminal offenses.

Miss Crawford has one of her greatest roles in "Montana Moon." Closing at the State tonight is "The Big Pond," undoubtedly the greatest picture in which Maurice Chevalier, French idol, is starred. The Grand features Charles Rogers in "Safety in Numbers," a vehicle in which he displays his musical talents to advantage.

NEW YORK—Coat tails are classed as a necessity of the well-dressed man when stepping out the coming season. Basil Durant, style expert, predicts it will be recognized that the dinner coat will be improper at the theater, formal dinners and dances. And dress suits will be of the midnight blue shade.

Lupe Velez, popular Mexican actress, is starred in "Hell Harbor," showing at the State theater, starting Monday.

Liquor-Buyer Loses Suit For Damages

CINCINNATI, Sept. 6.—"When a man engages in the purchase of liquor for beverage purposes and this fact is known both to the buyer and seller, he cannot recover damages if he bought something not fit for beverage purposes."

So ruled Judge Charles S. Bell, in common pleas court Friday in sustaining a demurrer to the petition of Albert Radar, who sought $15,000 from John and Mrs. Anna George.

Radar charged he bought beer and moonshine whiskey for beverage purposes, the defendants knowing that such beverages were to be used for beverage purposes, and that both liquids were poisonous, causing him to become paralyzed in the arms and in both legs.

President Vacates Buenos Aires Seat

BUENOS AIRES, Sept. 6.—Martel law was invoked today as the new president, Dr. Enrique Martinez, entrenched himself in the palace vacated by Hipolito Irigoyen, the Argentine's man of mystery.

Public assembly was prohibited and Buenos Aires was placed in the hands of the military. A rigid censorship was established.

Many were wounded in clashes during the night between the police and students, dissatisfied that President Irigoyen merely had retired rather than resigned. Under Argentine law a president may retire for so long as he wishes and delegate power to the vice president.

HOME-MAKING HELPS

By Wanda Barton

Painted tin or "tole" which is its fashionable name, borrowed from the French, is growing in popularity for all sorts of decorative purposes. It is used for trays, for containers of flower pots, odd bowls, candlesticks, grotesque figurines, ashtrays, and so on.

The beautiful designs painted on this humble metal make them extremely attractive and take them definitely out of the low-priced class. But tole has other advantages. It is light in weight and therefore very desirable for use as trays. A large sized tole tray, adequate for the accommodation of a tea service, hardly adds to its weight—indeed it isn't even as heavy as wicker.

Also, tole needn't be handled with kid gloves, even if it has a very handsome design. It does not show marks or scratches nearly as much as any of the other materials used for the same purpose, and it can stand a lot of rough wear.

Apparently tole has been chosen as the medium for many of our skillful decorative artists. For the designs one sees on tole in some of the smart shops are extremely lovely. Old court scenes, modernistic patterns, adventures in color effects—patterns that are not practical for any other serviceable metal. Some of them are even "antique" to resemble old silver or well-worn pewter, which is very good looking if you like that sort of thing.

The flower pot holders of tole are especially appropriate if fitted into the wrought iron plant stands. They can be obtained in identical sets of three or more or gayer effects are obtained if a variety of designs are used, but the same sizes and shapes are adhered to.

No longer is it a particular virtue to clean house by the sweat of the brow. That sparkling cleanliness effect that was once achieved by the liberal use of elbow grease (and the acquisition of housemaid's knees) is now obtained painlessly. The way to remove dirt, grime, grease or stain is not by vigorous rubbing, but by the gentle use of cleansing agents. Let the tools and chemicals do the work.

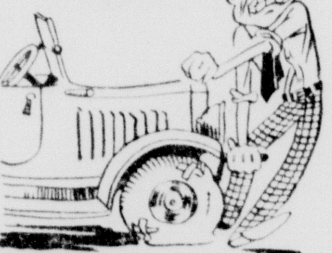

This doesn't mean investment in costly equipment. Small helps are efficacious if they are kept on hand. A convenient reach. Ammonia and steel wool, for example are two very simple aids to easier cleaning. Several grades of steel wool, fine and coarse, if kept on hand, will help in cleaning quickly many objects of metal or wood, in half the time required by sheer muscular effort. Baking soda is excellent for cleaning glass baking dishes or the glass door of the oven.

Borax is another inexpensive aid to quick cleaning. Instead of rubbing silver painstakingly let it acquire its own polish by a little immersion in hot water in which some borax has been dissolved.

Washing soda is a great little cleanser with a "butt" attached. It is powerful as well as effective, and while it is fine stuff to use for cleaning pots and pans and grimy floors or woodwork it should not be permitted to touch the hands. That coarse-grain, prominently veined effect.

Four From Family Faint During Fire

MILWAUKEE, WIS., Sept. 6. Saul Fairman, 17, discovered a fire in a garage near his home Friday, dashed across the street and turned in an alarm. He collided with a fire hydrant as he ran towards the blaze and the impact knocked him out.

His mother saw Saul lying in the street, shrieked and fainted. Jacob Fairman rushed out, saw his wife and son both unconscious, and collapsed. The two Fairman daughters came next and both fainted.

Two fire department units raced to the scene, one to put out the fire, the other to revive the Fairmans.

Drastic Military Precautions Taken by Government in Order to Prevent Demonstrations

BUDAPEST, Sept. 6.—Drastic military precautions were taken by the government today to frustrate a scheduled city-wide demonstration by Communists.

Launching wholesale raids on the headquarters of the Reds in all parts of Budapest, police arrested 400 men and women who were considered the leaders in local Communist activities.

Ten thousand troops poured into the city to reinforce 6,000 police and 1,000 gendarmes already on guard against outbreaks. Every strategic street, building and square in Budapest and its immediate vicinity was under strict military scrutiny.
